

THE EXTENDED FRENCH PROGRAM, GRADES 9 TO 12

Extended French, Grade 9

Academic

FEF1D

This course provides opportunities for students to speak and interact in French in a variety of real-life and personally relevant contexts. Students will develop their skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing by using language learning strategies introduced in the elementary Extended French program. They will develop their creative and critical thinking skills through independently responding to and interacting with a variety of oral and written texts. They will also enhance their understanding and appreciation of diverse French-speaking communities, and will develop skills necessary for lifelong language learning.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 1260 hours of French instruction, or equivalent

Note

The examples of language learning strategies in the specific expectations for each strand (A1.1, A2.1, B1.1, B2.1, C1.1, C1.4, D2.1, D2.2, and D2.3) are not grade specific, but students' use of such strategies will become more complex as they progress through the grades. Students will be introduced to these strategies through teacher modelling, and they will have multiple opportunities to practise their use in a variety of contexts. Students will also be encouraged to reflect on their use of the strategies and the strategies' effectiveness (A2.3, B2.3, C2.3, D2.4).

OVERALL EXPECTATIONS

By the end of this course, students will:

- A1. Listening to Understand: determine meaning in a variety of authentic and adapted oral French texts, using a range of listening strategies;
- A2. Listening to Interact: interpret messages accurately while interacting in French for a variety of purposes and with diverse audiences;
- A3. Intercultural Understanding: demonstrate an understanding of information in oral French texts about aspects of culture in diverse French-speaking communities and other communities around the world, and of French sociolinguistic conventions used in a variety of situations and communities.

SPECIFIC EXPECTATIONS

A1. Listening to Understand

By the end of this course, students will:

A1.1 Using Listening Comprehension

Strategies: identify a variety of listening comprehension strategies, and use them before, during, and after listening to understand oral French texts (e.g., activate prior knowledge about the topic before listening; determine the goal for each listening activity in order to listen more effectively; during listening, use visualization and make connections to personal experience to help them remember content; use context and background knowledge to help make inferences while listening; make predictions before and during a presentation and verify their accuracy after listening; after listening, compare interpretations of the message with a peer)

Teacher prompts: “Comment faites-vous des liens entre des situations similaires déjà vécues?” “Quels sont les mots-clés qui vous ont permis de repérer l’information entendue?” “Quelles sont les différentes façons de comprendre un exposé oral?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can promote the use of mind maps to help students retrieve and visually organize their prior knowledge.

A1.2 Demonstrating Understanding: demonstrate an understanding of the purpose and meaning of oral French texts about familiar and academic topics, including literary texts, with support as appropriate (e.g., listen to youth from different French-speaking communities discuss a social issue, and extract details that support their own opinion about the issue; explain the underlying meaning of lyrics by a First Nation, Métis, or Inuit songwriter after listening to the song in class; identify essential information from a presentation about the security features of banknotes; following the read-aloud of a literary story, write a response to the story and compare it with those of their peers)

Teacher prompts: “Quelle phrase résume le mieux la conversation que vous venez d’écouter entre les jeunes?” “Pourquoi est-il important de vérifier le placement approprié de certains adjectifs?” “Comment les paroles d’une chanson vous permettent-elles de créer des liens et d’interpréter le message?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can ask students listening to a conversation to note how the placement of an adjective can affect its meaning (e.g., “C’est une vraie [véritable] catastrophe”, “C’est une histoire vraie [qui est conforme à la vérité]”).

(2) Teachers can provide opportunities for students to determine whether the verb they hear is in the futur simple, indicating certainty (e.g., “Maintenant, elle ne comprend pas la situation, mais un jour elle comprendra”), or in the conditionnel présent, indicating probability (e.g., “Vous comprenez cette situation? À votre place, je ne comprendrais pas”).

A1.3 Responding to and Evaluating Media

Texts: evaluate the effectiveness of the treatment and presentation of ideas and information in a variety of oral media texts in French about familiar and academic topics, with support as appropriate (e.g., explain how the words, music, images, and sound effects in a television advertisement might influence teenagers; determine whether the images in a documentary about a social issue are consistent with the message of the film; explain reasons for the repetition of key points in a news report about an environmental topic)

Teacher prompts: “De quelle façon et jusqu’à quel point les messages exprimés dans une publicité télévisée sur l’abus d’alcool vous sensibilisent-ils à ces problèmes dans votre communauté?” “Comment un documentaire visionné en classe peut-il vous aider à trouver une solution de recyclage électronique dans votre communauté?” “Justifiez la répétition de quelques mots dans le reportage.”

Instructional tip: Teachers can direct students’ attention to the use of relative pronouns such as “dont” or “où” in advertisements (e.g., “Les pièces des téléphones portables dont vous n’avez pas besoin peuvent être récupérées et ainsi venir enrichir le stock de pièces de rechange”).

A2. Listening to Interact

By the end of this course, students will:

A2.1 Using Interactive Listening Strategies:

identify and use a range of interactive listening strategies to suit a variety of situations while participating in social and academic interactions (e.g., when conversing with a peer, ask questions to verify understanding and indicate involvement in the conversation; clarify, ask questions about, or respond to the ideas heard in a group discussion; paraphrase instructions or messages to confirm comprehension)

Teacher prompts: “Qu’est-ce qui vous aide à anticiper les idées clés dans une discussion?” “Quels types de questions pouvez-vous poser pour vérifier et consolider votre compréhension d’une conversation?” “Quand faut-il paraphraser une idée?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can foster a climate of give and take during classroom discussions, encouraging students to listen to each other respectfully, share ideas, and consider alternative viewpoints.

(2) Teachers can encourage students to observe the body language used by peers during interactions in order to enhance their own comprehension.

A2.2 Interacting: respond with understanding to what others say while participating in interactions about familiar and academic topics, including literary topics, in formal and informal situations (e.g., participate respectfully and appropriately in an improvisational role play; with a partner, share ideas about a French Canadian literary text read in class; in a small group, respond to the ideas of others about how to distinguish between needs and wants when monitoring spending habits)

Teacher prompts: “De quelle manière abordez-vous sans préparation une conversation sur un sujet familier?” “Comment pourriez-vous écouter respectueusement une discussion?” “Pourquoi incorporez-vous des questions dans une conversation?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can recommend that students use the conditionnel présent in their interactions with people they do not know well in order to be polite and respectful (e.g., “J’aimerais bien en savoir plus”, “Voudrais-tu écouter davantage?”).

(2) Teachers can set aside time for a daily oral warm-up routine, led by students, that allows them to listen to and share opinions or comments in response to “la question du jour” (e.g., “Que dois-je faire si ma carte d’identité étudiant est perdue ou endommagée?”, “Hier, quand on est arrivés près du stade, l’autoroute était bloquée. Savez-vous pourquoi?”, “Que pensez-vous de...?”).

A2.3 Metacognition:

(b) identify their areas of greater and lesser strength as listeners, and plan specific steps they can take to improve their listening skills (e.g., monitor the effectiveness of the strategies they used to confirm their understanding during interactions; discuss during a student-teacher conference the usefulness of referring to their predictions to infer meaning; plan to focus on extracting the most important message from oral texts)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi et comment avez-vous choisi certaines stratégies?” “Quelles techniques avez-vous utilisées pour écouter attentivement une production orale? Comment étaient-elles efficaces? Que feriez-vous différemment la prochaine fois?” “Comment avez-vous formulé vos questions pour encourager la discussion?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can ask students to outline their learning process when they listen to a class discussion.

A3. Intercultural Understanding

By the end of this course, students will:

A3.1 Intercultural Awareness: using information from oral French texts, identify French-speaking communities in Europe, find out about aspects of their cultures, and make connections to personal experiences and their own and other communities (e.g., listen to music that would be heard at cultural festivals in a variety of French-speaking communities in Europe and compare it to the music played at a festival in their own community; listen to French-speaking students from different areas in Europe describe a typical day, and make comparisons to their own experiences; contribute to a class discussion following peer presentations comparing French-speaking cultures in Europe to their own cultures)

Teacher prompts: “Quelles ressemblances et différences existe-t-il entre les chansons francophones d’Europe et les vôtres?” “Quelles images vous viennent à l’esprit en écoutant la musique francophone?” “Pourquoi est-il important de comparer les coutumes et les traditions entre les cultures?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can direct students to listen to a French song from Europe to extract the message, interpret information, and discuss the general ideas with peers (e.g., “Après avoir entendu la chanson ‘Famille heureuse’ par Les Nègresses Vertes, en dyade, discutez le pour et le contre d’une famille nombreuse”).

A3.2 Awareness of Sociolinguistic Conventions:

using information from oral French texts, identify and demonstrate an understanding of sociolinguistic conventions used in a variety of situations in diverse French-speaking communities* (e.g., distinguish between regional variations in pronunciation; interpret the messages conveyed through the language used to depict gender roles in popular music; identify some common idioms in a French-language news broadcast from Europe; view a television interview to identify expressions and forms of non-verbal communication that can be used to show interest in what is being said; identify the language register used by the participants in a conversation and rewrite it in a different register)

Teacher prompts: “Qu’est-ce que vous avez remarqué après avoir écouté différents dialogues de différentes régions francophones?” “Comment la connaissance du vocabulaire d’une région peut-elle faciliter l’apprentissage du vocabulaire d’une autre région?” “De quelle manière les mêmes expressions sont-elles utilisées dans différentes régions?” “Comment l’usage de régionalismes peut-il faciliter ou empêcher la communication?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can encourage students to create a graphic organizer or use an established one such as a Venn diagram to help them highlight similarities and differences in vocabulary from different communities in two French-speaking countries.

* Students are encouraged to identify examples of usage that is specific to particular regions or communities (e.g., French-speaking communities in Europe) but are not expected to do so.

By the end of this course, students will:

- B1. Speaking to Communicate: communicate information and ideas orally in French, using a variety of speaking strategies, appropriate language structures, and language appropriate to the purpose and audience;

- B3. Intercultural Understanding: in their spoken communications, demonstrate an awareness of aspects of culture in diverse French-speaking communities and other communities around the world, and of the appropriate use of French sociolinguistic conventions in a variety of situations.

B1. Speaking to Communicate

By the end of this course, students will:

B1.1 Using Oral Communication Strategies:

identify a variety of speaking strategies and use them to express themselves clearly and coherently in French for various purposes and to a variety of audiences (e.g., when planning a presentation, identify what classmates know about the topic; organize a speech with an introduction, middle, and conclusion; record, listen to, and make adjustments to a presentation before sharing it in a large group; use tone, body language, and facial expressions for emphasis; repeat or paraphrase ideas to assist peers' understanding)

Instructional tip: Teachers can encourage students to use linking words to enhance the flow of their presentations or speeches (e.g., “à ce propos”, “à cet égard”, “ainsi”, “autrement dit”, “afin de”, “pour cette raison”, “en conséquence”, “c’est pourquoi”).

B1.2 Producing Oral Communications:

opinions about familiar and academic topics, including literary topics, with support as appropriate (e.g., deliver a monologue or an impromptu speech to persuade peers to support an anti-bullying initiative; present information about healthy eating based on research and personal experience; recount childhood memories or personal experiences in sharing circles; dramatize or parody a scene from a movie to entertain a younger audience)

Teacher prompts: “Par quel moyen convainquez-vous vos camarades de votre point de vue?” “Comment s’exprime-t-on différemment dans un discours et dans un dialogue?” “Quel vocabulaire utilisez-vous quand vous vous adressez à une audience plus jeune que vous?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can provide opportunities for students to practise using a variety of descriptive words and sentence structures in different contexts and can encourage them to use these words and structures in their presentations.

(2) Teachers can encourage students to use the imparfait when describing memories and experiences (e.g., “Quand j’étais jeune, je croyais que...”).

B1.3 Speaking with Fluency:

speak with a smooth pace, appropriate intonation, and accuracy in communications in French (prepared and spontaneous) about familiar and academic topics, including literary topics (e.g., recite a poem or present a speech or short talk with expression and at a suitable speed; adapt their expression and intonation to reflect their message and the situation; deliver an oral presentation on a familiar topic, such as family rules and routines, with appropriate phrasing and emphasis; use vocabulary and expressions correctly in spontaneous role plays with peers about familiar subjects)

Teacher prompts: “Quelle est la meilleure stratégie pour vous aider à parler couramment le français?” “Comment pouvez-vous vous assurer que votre exposé est cohérent?” “Comment le ton de votre voix facilite-t-il la compréhension d’un message?” “Comment pouvez-vous améliorer la précision et la fluidité de votre conversation?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can help students speak more naturally by reviewing the use of pronouns to replace longer noun phrases (e.g., “Hier soir je lui ai parlé au téléphone” instead of “Hier soir j’ai parlé à mon ami au téléphone”, “J’y suis allé immédiatement” instead of “Je suis allé immédiatement au bureau du directeur”).

B1.4 Creating Media Texts: create a variety of oral media texts in French about familiar and academic topics, using forms, conventions, and techniques appropriate to the purpose and audience (e.g., produce a radio show, video, or podcast that distinguishes between the facts and opinions presented in a news report; record a song to stimulate discussion about an issue affecting adolescents; collaborate to record a message promoting the school’s extracurricular programs to potential students; in a small group, record a radio commercial for their geography class about the use and/or protection of Canada’s natural environment; provide the narration for a video clip about the role of music and dance in First Nations, Métis, or Inuit communities)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi est-il nécessaire de distinguer entre les faits et les opinions dans les nouvelles?” “Comment et pourquoi choisissez-vous le type de média que vous allez utiliser?” “Pourquoi est-il essentiel de bien connaître votre public cible avant d’enregistrer votre texte médiatique?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can provide opportunities for pairs of students to analyse and discuss news reports to develop their ability to distinguish between fact and opinion.

(2) Teachers can encourage students to incorporate reflexive and other pronominal verbs such as “s’adresser à”, “s’approcher de”, “se fier à”, “s’intéresser à”, “se moquer de”, “se méfier de”, “se souvenir de”, “s’exclamer” into their news reports (e.g., “Je m’approche du chantier, je me méfie bien et je m’adresse au frère de la victime pour vérifier...”).

B1.5 Applying Language Structures: communicate their meaning clearly, using parts of speech and word order appropriately (e.g., describe why they enjoy a particular interest or hobby, using possessive pronouns; provide advice to a Grade 8 student about the transition to high school, using appropriate verbs and tenses; use the subjunctif présent of high-frequency verbs such as “aller”, “faire”, “savoir” with the impersonal expression “il faut” to express necessity; refer to something nearby or far away by using pronoms démonstratifs such as “celui”, “celui-ci”, “celui-là”)

Teacher prompts: “Comment parle-t-on de nos intérêts et passe-temps préférés?” “Comment donnez-vous des conseils à des camarades plus jeunes?” “Comment exprimez-vous une nécessité?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can suggest that students use possessive pronouns, such as “le mien”, “le nôtre”, “les nôtres”, as they speak about their interests and hobbies.

(2) Teachers can direct students to use verbs such as “pouvoir”, “vouloir”, “devoir” followed by the infinitif when giving advice or directions (e.g., “Tu dois savoir que les salles de classe sont généralement numérotées; les numéros commencent souvent par le même chiffre que l’étage”).

B2. Speaking to Interact

By the end of this course, students will:

B2.1 Using Speaking Interaction Strategies:

demonstrate an understanding of appropriate speaking behaviour when interacting with others in a variety of formal and informal situations (e.g., elaborate on a peer’s ideas in order to demonstrate and extend their own understanding; use culturally appropriate body language during a conversation; ask questions to encourage further discussion in a group)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi est-il important d’approfondir les idées de vos camarades?” “Comment les gestes et le langage corporel peuvent-ils changer ou clarifier votre message?” “Comment pouvez-vous encourager un camarade à communiquer ses idées et continuer la discussion?” “Que faites-vous quand quelqu’un monopolise la conversation?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can model different types of questions that serve to extend a discussion and can encourage students to use them in their interactions with peers.

B2.2 Interacting: engage in spoken interactions in French (prepared and spontaneous), in academic and social contexts, about familiar and academic topics, including literary topics (e.g., with a peer, prepare and rehearse a dialogue to present in class about ethics and social responsibility in the twenty-first century; converse spontaneously about everyday life; survey classmates on different topics; in a small group, share key points from a text to defend an opinion; discuss the moral and lessons expressed in a fable; role-play a scene from a literary novel under study; participate in a discussion of a poem read in class)

Teacher prompts: “Quelle question allez-vous poser à votre camarade pour commencer une conversation?” “Sur quels éléments vous appuyez-vous pour interpréter le message d’un texte et créer un dialogue?” “Comment déterminez-vous les points saillants d’un poème?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can suggest that students ask open-ended questions in order to encourage longer, more substantive replies during conversations (e.g., “Qu’est-ce que tu as fait pendant la fin de semaine?” instead of “As-tu passé une bonne fin de semaine?”).

B2.3 Metacognition:

(a) explain which strategies they found helpful before, during, and after speaking to communicate effectively;

(b) identify their areas of greater and lesser strength as speakers, and plan specific steps they can take to improve their speaking skills (e.g., identify situations in which elaboration was useful as a speaking strategy and those in which it was not; assess whether the questions they asked served to generate and encourage discussion, and consider how they might improve their ability to ask effective questions; consider peer feedback when reflecting on the appropriateness of their body language during interactions; explain during a student-teacher conference how they monitor their speaking skills, and articulate their plans for improvement)

Teacher prompts: “Comment avez-vous formulé vos questions pour encourager la discussion?” “Comment pouvez-vous vous assurer que vos gestes et langage corporel appuient votre message?” “Comment considérez-vous une rétroaction descriptive de vos pairs?”

Instructional tips:

- (1) Teachers can encourage students to consider peer assessment when reflecting on how to enhance the appropriateness of their body language or questions during interactions.
- (2) Teachers can encourage students to use the futur simple when they speak about their plans for improvement (e.g., “Je ferai tout mon possible pour...”, “Je serai intéressé à écouter...”).

B3. Intercultural Understanding

By the end of this course, students will:

B3.1 Intercultural Awareness: communicate information orally about French-speaking communities in Europe, including aspects of their cultures and their contributions to la francophonie and the world, and make connections to personal experiences and their own and other communities (e.g., in pairs, discuss how traditions in French-speaking regions of Europe differ from one area to another; describe a variety of significant holidays in French-speaking European cultures and their importance to local communities; compare and contrast their own everyday life with that of individuals or groups from various French-speaking European cultures)

Teacher prompts: “Dans quelle mesure les coutumes et les traditions diffèrent-elles d’une région francophone à l’autre en Europe?” “Comment une connaissance des traditions des autres cultures vous aide-t-elle à mieux communiquer la vôtre?”

Instructional tips:

- (1) Teachers can help students create a lexical bank related to everyday life in different cultures (e.g., irregular adjectives and adverbs for description, reflexive verbs for daily activities, nouns for places and housing).
- (2) Teachers can model and encourage students to use inclusive language and to avoid stereotypes and overgeneralizations in their descriptions of other cultures.

B3.2 Awareness of Sociolinguistic Conventions:

identify sociolinguistic conventions associated with a variety of social situations in diverse French-speaking communities,* and use them appropriately in spoken interactions (e.g., vary expressions and language register according to the occasion, intent, and social situation; use polite expressions to show appreciation to others and to start or finish a presentation; offer and respond to greetings, invitations, compliments, and apologies; use interjections to convey hesitation)

Teacher prompts: “Comment allez-vous changer votre manière de parler lorsque vous vous adressez à différentes personnes dans différentes situations?” “Que faites-vous en cas d’hésitation dans une conversation?” “Quelle est la différence entre une communication formelle et une communication informelle?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can review the role of the conditionnel présent with the verbs “aimer”, “vouloir”, and “pouvoir” in polite conversation and can encourage students to use these constructions as appropriate (e.g., “J’aimerais vous parler de...”, “Je voudrais vous dire que...”).

(2) Teachers can encourage students to use interjections (e.g., “tiens”, “voyons”, “dommage”, “alors”, “tant pis”, “laisse tomber”, “ben”, “euh”, “ah”) in a conversation, as appropriate, to communicate an emotion, to get someone’s attention, or to convey hesitation.

By the end of this course, students will:

- C1. Reading Comprehension: determine meaning in a variety of authentic and adapted French texts, using a variety of reading comprehension strategies;
- C2. Purpose, Form, and Style: identify the purpose(s), characteristics, and aspects of style of a variety of text forms, including literary, informational, graphic, and media forms;
- C3. Intercultural Understanding: demonstrate an understanding of information in French texts about aspects of culture in diverse French-speaking communities and other communities around the world, and of French sociolinguistic conventions used in a variety of situations and communities.

C1. Reading Comprehension

By the end of this course, students will:

C1.1 Using Reading Comprehension Strategies:

use a variety of reading comprehension strategies before, during, and after reading to understand a variety of short French texts (e.g., before reading, activate prior knowledge and experiences, and determine what they hope to learn from the text; use an anticipation guide to help them make predictions before reading and check their accuracy after reading; read beyond an unfamiliar word or phrase to infer meaning from the overall sense of the passage; when encountering an unfamiliar word, substitute a word that would make sense in the same context; during and after reading, ask questions for clarification and reread to confirm meaning; synthesize the information in the text after reading to support comprehension)

Teacher prompts: “Quelle démarche utilisez-vous pour comprendre ce texte?” “Quel genre de questions posez-vous pour clarifier davantage les messages lus?” “Quelle stratégie utilisez-vous pour comprendre un texte qui contient du nouveau vocabulaire?” “Pourquoi faut-il se questionner avant, pendant et après la lecture d’un texte?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can encourage students to complete K-W-L charts to help focus their reading about a topic and to help them identify related topics for further exploration.

(2) Teachers can support students’ reading of a literary text by promoting strategies they can use to understand and think more deeply about the text (e.g., “Faire une pause pour penser à...”, “Examiner de plus près...”, “Diviser le texte en petites sections”, “Résumer en lisant”, “Discuter ce que vous avez lu”).

(3) Teachers can encourage students to discuss their predictions and hypotheses about the texts they are reading, to help ensure active reading and keep interest levels high (e.g., “À partir du titre et de l’introduction, je prévois que ce chapitre parlera de...”, “Après avoir survolé le compte-rendu, je pense que l’idée principale sera...”).

C1.2 Reading for Meaning: demonstrate an understanding of a variety of short literary, informational, and graphic French texts, including texts used in real-life situations (e.g., after reading a literary story, retell it from a different perspective; after reading a memoir, biography, or personal journal, role-play the subject of the text, responding in character to questions from peers; illustrate or dramatize a scene from a literary text; develop a profile of a person based on a collection of printed artifacts such as calendar entries, ticket stubs, grocery receipts, and library slips; read a series of instant messages to extract the specific details surrounding a group outing; develop a character sketch based on a brief biography of a historical figure to prepare for a short role-play presentation)

Teacher prompts: “Comment améliorez-vous votre compréhension d’un texte?” “Quelles questions pouvez-vous poser pour approfondir davantage votre compréhension du texte?” “Dans quelle mesure illustrer ou jouer des scènes facilite-t-il votre compréhension de l'intrigue du roman?" "Comment pouvez-vous vous assurer que vous avez bien compris les informations ou les directives dans un message électronique?"

Instructional tip: Teachers can ask students to make a chronological list of the events in a story before they retell it to the class.

C1.3 Reading with Fluency: read a variety of French texts with proper intonation and at a sufficient rate and with sufficient ease to demonstrate that they understand the overall sense of the text (e.g., read aloud, adjusting their rate, expression, and tone to portray a character; improve pace and enunciation by recording and listening to their own reading; read aloud a fable, myth, or poem, pausing as indicated by the punctuation and/or line breaks to help communicate the intended meaning)

Teacher prompts: "Pourquoi est-il important d'ajuster votre débit et votre expression lorsque vous lisez le rôle d'un personnage?" "Quelle est l'importance de la ponctuation dans la lecture?"

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can model fluent reading by reading aloud to the students for at least five minutes daily, choosing texts that can help build students' background knowledge and expose them to new vocabulary.

(2) Teachers can review rules of pronunciation and demonstrate correct pronunciation during repeated interactive read-alouds (e.g., elision: "J'en voudrais une", "Il n'y viendra pas", "Ils n'ont pas d'enfants", "Ce sont les jeux olympiques qu'André adore"; silent letters: "hier", "finissent", "vous", "heureusement"; liaison: "un petit ami", "les étudiants", "deux enseignants", "un grand écrivain", "nous aborderons").

C1.4 Developing Vocabulary: use several different vocabulary acquisition strategies to expand their French vocabulary (e.g., predict the meaning of an unfamiliar word through context, verify their prediction by looking the word up in a dictionary, and create a personal mnemonic to help them remember it; use knowledge of roots, prefixes, and suffixes to help them determine the meaning of unfamiliar words; in a vocabulary notebook, list and define words that are easily confused, such as "attendre" and "assister")

Teacher prompts: "Quelles stratégies utilisez-vous pour enrichir votre vocabulaire?" "Comment comprenez-vous la terminologie et le vocabulaire propres au sujet que vous lisez?" "De quelle façon organisez-vous les interventions favorisant l'enrichissement du vocabulaire pour améliorer la fluidité en lecture?"

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can help students understand unfamiliar words by ensuring that they are aware of the meanings of various prefixes and suffixes, such as "trans-, tra-, tré-, très-", which mean "beyond" or "through" (e.g., "trépasser", "transposer"), and "-aille, -ard", which are pejorative (e.g., "mangeaille", "chauffard").

(2) Teachers can support the development of students' vocabulary by creating a classroom word wall that includes word families and specialized vocabulary, including literary terms.

C1.5 Responding to and Evaluating Media

Texts: demonstrate an understanding of ideas and information in a variety of French media texts, and evaluate the effectiveness of the treatment and presentation of the messages (e.g., discuss the feelings evoked by the slogan in a print advertisement; explain their reactions to a news article on an environmental or First Nations issue; assess how magazines foster beliefs about ideal body images; assess the validity of and possible bias in product reviews on various websites; discuss how the text and images in a travel brochure appeal to a particular demographic; explain the message conveyed by informational graphics used in promotional materials for an event)

Teacher prompts: "Comment le message d'une bannière publicitaire peut-il évoquer des sentiments personnels?" "Comment les magazines d'adolescents influencent-ils ce que vous mangez, portez et pensez?" "Comment les préjugés que vous avez identifiés dans un guide du consommateur influencent-ils vos choix d'achat?" "Comment est-ce que les graphiques influencent vos inférences?"

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can direct students' attention to the use of the imparfait and passé composé in news articles describing past events (e.g., "Hier, les cœurs des Ontariens étaient véritablement à la fête. Avec une chaleur ressentie qui a dépassé les 35°C en tenant compte du taux d'humidité, il n'y avait rien de mieux qu'une petite saucette. Cette première vague de chaleur a toutefois causé des dégâts dans certaines régions. De violents orages ont déraciné des dizaines d'arbres et abîmé des fils électriques. Le retour à la normale est prévu dans quelques jours").

(2) When students are reading promotional and advertising materials, teachers can encourage them to look for the use of the subjonctif présent of high-frequency verbs such as "aller", "faire", "savoir" after the impersonal expression "il (ne) faut (pas)" and note how it is used to emphasize necessity or to persuade.

C2. Purpose, Form, and Style

By the end of this course, students will:

C2.1 Purposes and Characteristics of Text

Forms: identify the purpose(s) and characteristics of a variety of text forms in French, including literary, informational, graphic, and media forms, and explain how the characteristics help to communicate the meaning (e.g., dialogue gives concrete expression to character traits and conflicts in a literary text; a brief story illustrates one or more lessons or principles in a parable; brief messages, abbreviations, and photos succinctly convey information on a social networking site; charts communicate ratings in consumer reports evaluating products and services; images and specific information promote an event, a product, or a business in a flyer)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi l’auteur utilise-t-il des dialogues dans son récit?” “Quel rôle joue le langage abrégé dans des sites de réseautage social et pourquoi?” “Quel impact les photos et les images présentées dans le guide du consommateur ont-elles sur vos achats?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can encourage students to discuss the effects of dialogue in a literary text by Roch Carrier (e.g., “advancing the story”, “developing the characters”, “adding dynamism”).

C2.2 Text Features and Elements of Style:

identify features and stylistic elements of a variety of text forms in French, including literary, informational, graphic, and media forms, and explain how they help to convey the meaning (e.g., headings and subheadings, point form lists of ingredients, illustrations, and indexes help a cook find information in a cookbook; titles, headings, photographs, captions, and pull quotes supplement and reinforce the information in magazine articles; stylistic devices such as hyperbole add colour to a character or humour to a story)

Teacher prompts: “Dans quelle mesure la lecture de magazines agrmente-t-elle votre plaisir à lire et le sentiment d’appartenance? Pourquoi?” “Pourquoi l’auteur utilise-t-il des hyperboles pour exprimer une idée ou un sentiment?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can direct students’ attention to the use of an impersonal, objective tone and third person pronouns in news magazines (e.g., “D’ici un an, on tient à donner à tous les enfants, garçons et filles, partout dans le monde, les moyens d’achever un cycle complet d’études primaires”, “On cherchera plutôt à faire découvrir les côtés cachés de l’affaire”).

(2) Teachers and students can discuss how hyperbole can be used to make a point (e.g., “Nous sommes trempés jusqu’aux os : complètement mouillés”, “C’est à mourir de rire : quelque chose est vraiment drôle”).

C2.3 Metacognition:

(b) identify their areas of greater and lesser strength as readers, and plan specific steps they can take to improve their reading skills (e.g., describe a method they have used to prepare to read an informational text and assess the effectiveness of that method; rank their top four reading comprehension strategies in order of effectiveness and give reasons for their choices; explain the usefulness of synthesizing as a reading strategy for different types of texts; determine whether skimming or scanning is a more useful strategy when reading a graphic novel; read aloud to a peer and consider his or her feedback when reflecting on steps to improve their reading skills)

Teacher prompts: “Comment vous préparez-vous pour lire?” “Que faites-vous pour ne pas perdre le fil du texte en lisant?” “Pourquoi lit-on les bandes dessinées différemment d’un texte informatif?” “Comment la rétroaction de votre camarade à propos de votre lecture avec clarté et aisance vous aide-t-elle à vous améliorer?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can direct students to use sentence starters with the object pronoun “me” when describing their reading skills and strategies (e.g., “Cela me permet de...”, “Cela m’informe sur...”, “Cela me fait penser à...”).

C3. Intercultural Understanding

By the end of this course, students will:

C3.1 Intercultural Awareness: using information from a variety of French texts, identify French-speaking communities in Europe, find out about aspects of their cultures, and make connections to personal experiences and their own and other communities (e.g., research and summarize some cultural characteristics of a French-speaking community in Europe; based on their reading of tourism brochures, articles, and/or websites, create a multimedia presentation highlighting tourist attractions in a French-speaking region in Europe; compare advertisements for cultural events in French-speaking communities in various European countries with advertisements for events in their own community; research a variety of recipes from a French-speaking region in Europe and explain how geography has influenced the ingredients)

Teacher prompts: “Quelles sont les caractéristiques de la culture?” “La culture est parfois comparée à un iceberg. Certaines caractéristiques de la culture seraient visibles et d’autres cachées. Que pensez-vous de cette affirmation?” “Quels renseignements cherchez-vous sur la culture d’un pays que vous ne connaissez pas?” “Comment est-ce que l’environnement influence la création de différentes recettes régionales?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can direct students to use different forms of negation, such as “ne... jamais”, “ne... rien”, “ne... plus”, “ne... nulle part”, “ne... personne”, “ne... aucun” (e.g., “Je n’ai jamais réalisé que...”, “Je n’ai vu nulle part un jardin qui possède tant d’espèces et de variétés végétales”), as well as affirmative statements, while reflecting on what they have read about foods in French-speaking regions in Europe.

C3.2 Awareness of Sociolinguistic Conventions:

using information from French texts, identify and demonstrate an understanding of sociolinguistic conventions used in a variety of situations in diverse French-speaking communities* (e.g., identify differences in the language registers that a character in a novel uses when addressing others who are of various ages and who have different types of relationships with that character; demonstrate awareness of abbreviations and initialisms in electronic messages from French-speaking peers; read letters from several decades ago and discuss the evolution of the language used for greeting, informing, or requesting)

Teacher prompts: “Comment distingue-t-on les différents niveaux de langue utilisés en compréhension écrite?” “De quelle façon la lecture de lettres d’époques différentes (vos parents ou grands-parents) vous conscientise-t-elle à l’évolution sociale du langage?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can suggest that students discuss changes in language over time using a combination of past, present, and future tenses with temporal expressions (e.g., “il y a”, “dès”, “dans ce temps-là”, “dans les années”, “durant”, “à cette époque”).

By the end of this course, students will:

- D1. Purpose, Audience, and Form: write French texts for different purposes and audiences, using a variety of forms and knowledge of language structures and conventions of written French appropriate for this level;
- D2. The Writing Process: use the stages of the writing process – including pre-writing, producing drafts, revising, editing, and publishing – to develop and organize content, clarify ideas and expression, correct errors, and present their work effectively;
- D3. Intercultural Understanding: in their written work, demonstrate an awareness of aspects of culture in diverse French-speaking communities and other communities around the world, and of the appropriate use of French sociolinguistic conventions in a variety of situations.

SPECIFIC EXPECTATIONS

D1. Purpose, Audience, and Form

By the end of this course, students will:

D1.1 Identifying Purpose and Audience: determine their purpose in writing and the audience for French texts they plan to create (e.g., to introduce themselves to a potential employer or to the class; to request information from a friend about a social event or from a travel agency about a class trip; to express their opinion on a social issue or on hobbies or interests in the school newsletter; to invite people to a school event such as a cultural festival; to report on a community event, such as a First Nations, Métis, or Inuit celebration, for a local website; to promote the value of learning a second language in Canada in a blog; to thank a guest speaker for a presentation or a friend for help they have provided)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi écrit-on?”

“Comment choisissez-vous des informations personnelles pour les présenter aux différentes audiences?” “Quelle est la différence entre un message adressé à un ami et celui adressé à un responsable?” “Quels sont les arguments pour les parents et les camarades quant à l’importance de l’apprentissage du français?” “Quels sont les éléments importants pour rédiger un compte-rendu d’événements?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can direct students to use the personal pronoun “on” when writing to thank a guest speaker on behalf of the school community.

D1.2 Writing in a Variety of Forms: write a variety of short French texts to convey information, ideas, and opinions about familiar and academic topics, including literary topics, applying their knowledge of some of the structural and stylistic elements of each form (e.g., a summary of a young adult or literary novel read in class; a formal paragraph stating and supporting their opinion about teenagers’ use of cellphones; a weekly budget based on their present financial circumstances; a letter to the school’s principal to suggest ways of improving the school building or naturalizing the school grounds; a short dialogue relating to a community cultural event that they attended or read about; a list describing information presented in a graph, table, or chart; a brief survey to solicit peers’ feedback on a particular issue; a response to a blog post or a tweet)

Teacher prompts: “Quelle forme d’écriture préférez-vous et pourquoi?” “Le téléphone portable est un élément indispensable pour les jeunes. Êtes-vous d’accord? Justifiez votre réponse.” “Comment planifier un budget vous conscientise-t-il de la valeur de l’argent?” “Comment organisez-vous votre interprétation de l’information présentée dans un tableau?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can encourage students to vary the form of their survey questions, depending on the detail of the answers they are seeking (e.g., inversion: “Avez-vous déjà eu recours au service...?”; interrogative adverbs: “Comment pourrait-on améliorer les services offerts?”; interrogative pronouns: “Quelle catégorie décrit le mieux votre situation?”).

D1.3 Creating Media Texts: create short media texts in French on familiar and academic topics, using forms, conventions, and techniques appropriate to the purpose and audience (e.g., write a news report, ensuring that they address all of the five Ws to communicate the most relevant information to the reader; create a slogan and jingle for a product to appeal to their age group; create a multimedia slideshow with narrative captions and music appropriate for the images; write a post for a social media website to respond to others' comments)

Teacher prompts: “Donnez ou inventez des faits et des renseignements pour rédiger une nouvelle journalistique sur la contribution des jeunes à un projet communautaire.” “Comment choisit-on les slogans et les refrains publicitaires pour les produits ou services?” “Quel est l’impact des images dans les nouvelles journalistiques sur le lecteur?” “Quel est le pouvoir des sites médiatiques?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can suggest that students use expressions such as “selon moi”, “il me semble que”, “d’après moi”, “à mon avis”, “à ma connaissance”, “à ce que je crois”, “de mon point de vue” when expressing opinions on a website.

D1.4 Applying Language Structures: communicate their meaning clearly, using parts of speech appropriately and following conventions for correct spelling, word order, and punctuation (e.g., use auxiliary verbs, adverbs, prepositions, and conjunctions correctly; use inversion for questions; use final punctuation appropriate to the sentence type; write correct simple, compound, and complex sentences; use relative pronouns such as “qui”, “que”, and “dont” correctly; consistently make the adjective “tout” agree in number and gender with its referent and place it in the right position; use irregular adjectives for descriptions of people, places, or events; place adverbs correctly with compound verbs)

Teacher prompts: “Comment peut-on changer un message en changeant l’ordre des mots dans une phrase?” “Quel est le rôle de la ponctuation dans la phrase?” “Quel temps de verbe faut-il utiliser pour décrire vos souvenirs d’enfance?” “Où mettez-vous l’adverbe dans une phrase au passé composé?”

Instructional tips:

(1) Teachers can guide students in the correct use of the passé composé and imparfait when describing past events or childhood memories.

(2) Teachers can review with students the agreement of irregular adjectives, such as “doux”, “beau”, “nouveau”, “fou”, “gentil”, “vieux” (e.g., “un vieil homme”, “de vieilles dames”, “de vieux livres”).

(3) Teachers can remind students of the correct position of adverbs with affirmative and negative compound verbs (e.g., “Elle a bien étudié”, “Ils ne sont pas toujours allés au festival”, “Nous avons nagé longtemps dans le lac”).

D2. The Writing Process

By the end of this course, students will:

D2.1 Generating, Developing, and Organizing

Content: generate, develop, and organize ideas for writing using a variety of pre-writing strategies and resources (e.g., contribute to group discussions to generate ideas and to activate prior knowledge about the topic; use an idea tree to help them distinguish the main idea for a text from supporting ideas and to clarify the relationships among them; complete a K-W-L chart to help them focus an inquiry about a literary topic; summarize and paraphrase information and ideas in point-form notes; use note cards to help them organize the main ideas and supporting details for their text; use a variety of resources when investigating a topic; record all sources used to credit the original author, provide a reference list, and avoid plagiarism)

Teacher prompts: “Pourquoi est-il important de faire un remue-méninges avant de commencer une tâche d’écriture?” “De quelle façon organiserez-vous vos idées pour rédiger un texte d’opinion?” “Comment développez-vous vos idées avant de rédiger un texte narratif?” “Quelles questions avez-vous préparées pour vous guider dans la recherche de votre sujet?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can demonstrate ways of recording information that can help students organize their thinking (e.g., “Les diagrammes en arbre permettent de diviser des idées en parties de plus en plus petites autour de l’idée principale, d’établir des relations et de représenter un ordre d’idées”).

D2.2 Drafting and Revising: plan and produce drafts and revise their work using a variety of teacher-directed and independent strategies (e.g., when drafting a paragraph, focus on creating a topic sentence that reflects the main idea, followed by sentences that support that idea, and ending with a transition that leads the reader to the next paragraph; before drafting a news report, analyse the structure of other news articles and consider how they can apply that structure to the information they wish to present; to avoid interrupting their thought processes, write a full draft that includes all their main ideas before starting to edit or proofread; reread their draft to ensure logical organization, transitions between paragraphs, and adequate development of information and ideas; use feedback from peers to help them revise and add interest to their writing)

Teacher prompts: “Comment les autres modèles peuvent-ils vous aider à améliorer votre article de journal?” “Comment décelez-vous vos erreurs d’organisation du texte, de cohérence, de syntaxe, et de sémantique?” “Quels outils ou ressources vous aident à réviser votre brouillon et à produire un texte final?” “De quelle façon les conseils de vos pairs vous aident-ils à apporter des corrections pertinentes?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can encourage students to use sequencing terms such as “d’abord”, “ensuite”, “d’ailleurs”, “par conséquent”, “d’une part...d’autre part”, “en effet”, “ainsi”, “en revanche”, “puisque”, “pourtant”, “par contre”, “de plus”, “enfin”, “finalement” to help them present their thoughts and ideas coherently.

D2.3 Producing Finished Work: make improvements to enhance the clarity and readability of their written work, and use a few elements of effective presentation to produce a polished product for publication (e.g., review their final draft against the success criteria for the task to ensure that they have met all the criteria; use electronic resources judiciously to help them check grammar, spelling, syntax, and punctuation in their final draft; reread their formatted text to ensure correct usage of capitalization and formatting conventions; review the formatted work in its entirety before submitting it)

Teacher prompts: “Comment les critères de réussite vous sont-ils utiles pour accomplir votre tâche écrite?” “Comment vérifiez-vous la cohérence des idées de votre texte?” “Comment révisiez-vous un texte pour le finaliser?”

Instructional tips:

- (1) Teachers can encourage students to use direct and indirect pronouns to reduce repetition and enhance readability.
- (2) Teachers can assist students in assessing the suitability of online and other electronic resources for checking their writing.

D2.4 Metacognition:

- (b) identify their areas of greater and lesser strength as writers, and plan specific steps they can take to improve their writing skills

(e.g., identify vocabulary that they frequently use, and identify strategies that could help them integrate a greater variety of words and expressions into their writing; assess completed texts using the success criteria for the tasks to determine what they could improve in the future; reflect on a writing task they found particularly challenging, and explain what they did to meet the challenge; consider feedback from the teacher and peers when planning next steps; complete a self-assessment on their use of a particular text form and plan next steps to improve their use of that form; discuss the distinction between drafting and revising)

Teacher prompts: “À quoi servent les critères de réussite d’une tâche à accomplir?” “Quelles sont les étapes à suivre pour rédiger un texte?” “Comment la différenciation de technique d’écriture (p. ex., le style ironique) enrichit-elle votre style d’écriture et pourquoi?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can ask students to reflect on their preferred writing topics and forms and can encourage them to consider how they might apply and extend their skills by using different forms to address less familiar topics.

D3. Intercultural Understanding

By the end of this course, students will:

D3.1 Intercultural Awareness: in their written work, communicate information about French-speaking communities in Europe, including aspects of their cultures and their contributions to la francophonie and the world, and make connections to personal experiences and their own and other communities (e.g., write a narrative inspired by a French-speaking European culture; write a promotional piece for a French-language film from Europe; write a letter or email to a teenager in a French-speaking European community, asking questions to determine how his or her life is similar to and/or different from their own; describe a personal celebration in their life and one that a teenager from a French-speaking European community might celebrate; write a description of a “green community” in a French-speaking region of Europe)

Teacher prompts: “Comment faites-vous la promotion des films francophones dans votre communauté?” “Quelles sont les ressemblances et les différences entre la célébration des fêtes d’anniversaire dans votre communauté et celle d’une région francophone d’Europe?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can review with students regular and irregular comparative and superlative forms and can encourage students to use these forms when comparing their own culture with that of a French-speaking region in Europe (e.g., “Il y a plus de célébrations que chez nous”, “Nos célébrations sont meilleures que les siennes parce que...”, “Ce sont les adultes qui reçoivent le moins de cadeaux”).

D3.2 Awareness of Sociolinguistic Conventions:

identify sociolinguistic conventions associated with a variety of social situations in diverse French-speaking communities,* and use them appropriately in their written work (e.g., use appropriate abbreviations in text messages to a French pen pal; research vocabulary related to specific French-speaking communities to use in their writing about the region; write a script for a skit with both formal and informal speech between characters)

Teacher prompts: “Comment écrire la langue texto éveille-t-il en vous des registres de la langue?” “De quelle façon l’écriture d’un discours évoque-t-elle la langue formelle ou informelle de la personne qui parle et sa culture?” “Comment la culture influence-t-elle la formalité d’une langue?”

Instructional tip: Teachers can suggest that students research regional French vocabulary in Europe and write notes about different terms used in different regions (e.g., “En Suisse on dit ‘des plaques de chocolat’, ‘des biscuits’ et ‘des petites pièces’, mais en France on dit ‘des tablettes de chocolat’, ‘des gâteaux secs’ et ‘des petits fours’”).

* Students are encouraged to identify examples of usage that is specific to particular regions or communities (e.g., French-speaking communities in Europe) but are not expected to do so.
